

HEPBURN TAKES 63 OF ONTARIO'S 90 SEATS

EVEN OSHAWA SENDS GRIT TO TORONTO

Earl Rowe, Heading Conservative Opposition, Fails of Election

From the C.I.O. called a strike in Oshawa the Hepburn took a strong stand against what he termed the lawless methods of the organization.

IN OSWAVA

Gordon Clinton, the Liberal candidate who was elected in Ontario County which includes the city of Oshawa. At the same time the two main Conservative candidates, the premier over his stand on the Oshawa strike were re-elected as Liberal members of the House of Commons in Toronto, Bellwoods and David Crook in Windsor-Walkerville.

Comparatively few close decisions were made in yesterday's voting. In many cases the Conservative leaders were returned with increased majorities. The premier, however, claimed his 1934 majority of 2,700 to 5,000.

A notable exception was the general election in York East where Premier Henry's election was in doubt for a time. Even then Mr. Henry's majority was so small a recount appeared likely.

FOR CAREER SEAT

Two of three men mentioned by Premier Hepburn as slated for contestants after the election won their seats in the riding of Simcoe-Cross in Haldimand-Norfolk and Harold Kirby in Toronto-Eglinton. The third, George E. MacBride, lost a close race in Addington but lost out to W. A. Black, former Conservative cabinet minister.

Former Conservative cabinet ministers did not vary much from the basic pattern. The three who survived the 1934 election, retained their seats while two others, first elected in 1934, were defeated.

TWO RETURN

Leopold Macaulay, former minister of highways, was reelected in York South-West. H. H. McVicar, former provincial secretary, in Grenville-Dundas. Along with Mr. Henry, he was the only one of their old colleagues back. William Finlayson of Simcoe East and T. L. Keay of Simcoe-Cross.

The next legislature will revert to the two-party system for provincial elections. The two who were elected in supporters of either the Hepburn government or the Grits.

The one independent, Liberal, M. M. McBride of Brantford who was elected as an independent in 1934, did not support Premier Hepburn.

Ferguson Oliver of Grey South was elected in Simcoe-Cross. United Farmers of Ontario but he too gave consistent support to the government which was not opposed by the Liberals.

The defeat of Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture, in Peel may lead Mr. Oliver to being offered a seat in the cabinet.

HEPBURN WIN BODY BLOW TO HIGH FINANCE

his predecessors and succeeded in having the Ontario legislature pass Ontario many millions of dollars which had been lost to the province by road construction.

INVOLVES VAST SUM

It is estimated that with the money already recovered and the money still to be recovered, represented by these activities, that the total by which the province will benefit will be $100,000,000. This is a sum of money which would have been received if it had not been for the courageous action of Premier Hepburn.

The premier also failed in a series of attempts to get the financial institutions and money monopolies when he cancelled the 1934 budget. He was beaten in his efforts and forced renewals of others on more equitable terms. The result of all this was a loss of $100,000,000 of taxpayers' money which would otherwise have gone to the financial ranks.

Premier Hepburn carried his interest reductions into the business of the railroads. He succeeded in reducing all farm mortgage loans under the Ontario Farm Loan Board to 4 per cent. This was the last extension of the terms of repayment over a period of 30 years and giving the farmers a real opportunity to get on their feet and once again own their land.

CIDE HIGHLIGHTS

In view of the radical measures and the threats of the "sound money" and "high finance" authorities, the premier by his drastic interest reductions and repudiation of the debts of the railroads, Ontario is today the highest of any province in Canada, a factor which has been instrumental in the success of Ontario's fighting premiers and his radical followers.

To the October 1st is that the people of Ontario are at last awake, and the next general election will be a victory for the Hepburnites. That alertness is not confined to Ontario alone but is Dominion wide. The Hepburnites are jubilant this morning after reviewing the situation. "Big Business" has come to its end.

San Marino, the world's smallest country, exports postage stamps in large quantities. Stone and wine are its only other exports.

MAYOR CLARKE DELIGHTED AT HEPBURN WIN

up to vigorous fight by the Ontario premier did to get him for the position of mayor of this city and to throw the inquisitive Fortin plan which was to make him sole leader and they liked managed to put over for their financial losses.

EDMONTON DEMANDS REFORM

Dealing with his own election, the mayor stated that he was receiving the support he was receiving.

"I am not in a position to say my fight for a cut in debts and in interest rates, to a figure where they can be paid off, has been successful," he said, adding that the demand for $30 a month for old age pensioners for all who were recently married and had no income of $600 a year, was being supported by the people. They are asking me to support a minimum pension of not less than 40 cents an hour and four hours a day, plus a weekly wage of five dollars a week, and the work and wages plan which would provide employment for carpenters, plumbers, painters, masons and others engaged in the building trades is another plain of my platform," he said.

EDMONTON RESIDENTS

He stated that only Alberta residents will be accepted for this form of unemployment relief and that all other unemployed Albertans will be required to return to the province where they have residence, and where employment opportunities exist.

Commission officials also announced that this scheme will be available to all unemployed Albertans for single, unemployed men during this winter.

LIBERALS ARE DISGUNTED

Referring to his campaign meetings of Wednesday night the mayor said he had had many a good feeling among the people against the members of the legislature who, they were told, had been paid off as pawns by the "men of power."

"I have talked with many good Liberals in the last few days who while their votes are being disposed of by the rosy-coated organization of the People's League, Tories, and others, are being treated like dirt by the leaders of the party who have now come into power," he said. "I don't think they'll be successful this time."

Gallows Stairway Will Be Preserved

London, Ont., Oct. 7.—A stairway nearly a century old, whose treads are built from the gallows that once was used at the county jail, is to be removed from the jail and replaced by a concrete one.

Subject to countless grand jury reports, condemning the airway bridge as unsafe, was demanded by the jail committee which decided to erect a jail in place of the old one.

AGAINST FORTIN PLAN

Generally speaking he found the people of Edmonton interested in the legal representatives of the People's League, Tories, and others, are being treated like dirt by the leaders of the party who have now come into power," he said. "I don't think they'll be successful this time."

ONTARIO'S VERDICT

Voters of the province of Ontario—home of long-accumulated wealth, stamping ground of the financial hierarchy, steeped for generations in "sound" money doctrine—yesterday gave a three-to-one majority to the Hepburn Government for having fought the money power, forced down interest rates, and repudiated a flock of "sacred" contracts by which its predecessor had commissioned exploiters to rob the public.

Ontario newspapers, and other demented voters who stay west, need to learn that future tell western politicians that they wanted to keep cheap money and to challenge the moral validity of mercenary contracts. The voters of that province have declared that in their belief the debtor has some claim to consideration aside from charity, and the public same rights which no group of politicians can contract away. That "sanctity" attaches to a documentary swindle has been repudiated when it has been longest preached and most pronounced.

Apparently all the members of the new legislature are of the two historic parties, excepting one U.P.O. The C.C.F. failed to elect a single member with 37 candidates in the field.

Premier Hepburn is called a radical Liberal, but the results show the people democratic and the repudiation of so-called "sound government."

THE DUTY OF THE DAY

Today it is the public duty as well as the personal privilege of every qualified elector in Ontario to go to the polls and cast his ballot if he or she can possibly do so. The franchise imposes a responsibility, as it confers a power; the responsibility to choose which candidate would best represent the constituency and to vote for him. If he or she cannot do so, the voter may also for the other candidates in the order of his preference. Good wishes, hopes and moral support mean nothing unless they are translated into action by making a ballot and depositing it in the post box. The votes are counted at the end of the day; unrecorded opinions, however, good, do not affect the result.

Voting is not compulsory. The elector is legally free to vote or to stay away from the polls. He is as free to do the latter as to do the former, voting that neighbor. And should a large proportion of electors exercise that liberty an election would be something of a farce. To neglect to vote is to sanction and encourage misrule. It is the duty of every voter to encourage others to do the electing, and those who vote are sometimes only a fraction of those qualified to vote.

If there is no legal compulsion to vote there is also no legal obligation to do so. Every citizen has the right to be judge from day to day on the way the province is governed. But anyone who deliberately fails to vote today will have poor ground upon which to complain a month from now if he does not like the kind of laws and administration it is getting.

MUNICIPALITIES SHOULD BE HEARD

The province is not to present its already prepared brief to the Royal Commission respecting subsidies, taxation and kindred matters. The legislature has, on the ground that it is not prepared against the Social Credit party and would be honest to the representations made. It is to be hoped the Commission will not on that account decide to hold no hearings in Alberta. For the elected men of the municipalities of one kind or another—have also prepared briefs for submission. These they should have an opportunity to present, and should present the case and stand strongly because they are to go back to the people.

The legislature in this matter spoke for itself, and itself only; actually for a majority only of the members of that body. That the province is not to state its case and argue for better terms with the Royal Commission is another major capitulation out of this financial disaster. It may even increase those difficulties, by creating an impression that Alberta either has no serious financial troubles or does not want any outside help. This is not true. And it can be seen the silence of the province will then deprive municipal representatives the duty of standing altogether on their own and stating their case and problems in the most persuasive way possible.

The legislature majority may be convinced evidently are convinced, that the networking of the Social Credit program will solve the difficulties of the province; or that these can be satisfactorily met by further federal help or a re-allocation of taxing powers. That may be, or it may not be. But what the municipalities require is to be called of their own accord given source of revenue, and they require it now. They cannot pay debts with prospects of a change in the economic system of the province, nor supply relief allowances by cashing Major Douglas' ideas in advance.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS OUT

President Roosevelt's speech at Chicago was of a kind to make history. It was accurately timed, and worded to bring resonance to the same major theme. But Mr. Roosevelt did it with almost without realizing that what they desired to be avoided. That another conflagration of world dimensions would destroy civilization has been said many times. But Mr. Roosevelt did it with the distinguished bearing of a nation of one hundred and twenty million people who do not intend that civilization shall perish, and whom the assailants of peace have hitherto not taken seriously in their calculations. And the fact that there are any other national leader to speak words of sanity and reason to the quarters where they are needed, he left no warning unspoken, nor any doubt as to where the United States will be in the coming conflict.

The most significant passage in a speech that re-echoed throughout Europe and the Orient was: "There is a solidarity and interdependence of the modern world, both technically and morally, which makes it impossible for any country to act alone, or for reasons of self-interest, to oppose the general welfare of the rest of the world, especially when such upheavals appear to be spreading and not declining."

That is the most clear-cut pronouncement on international affairs that has come from an exponent of the White House in many years. What it plainly means is that the United States is not to be counted neutral on the issue of peace versus war. It is positively for peace, alike for reasons of self-interest and for reasons of international self-protection. The position days have gone, and with them the notion that one country might survive though the rest of the world went to hell.

There is every hand who loves peace or wants war will take courage from this straight-flung warning to the war-makers that they are recognized to be enemies of the United States, to whom it is "a matter of vital interest and concern" that "the sanctity of international treaties and the maintenance of international morality be restored."

According to Japanese authorities the Chinese Government is offering a bonus of $145 for the capture of a live Japanese general and $145 for the capture of a tank. The Chinese Government does not seem to think Japanese generals are worth much.

Just to keep the record straight. His Honor the Lieutenant Governor did not "refuse" his assent to any act passed by the legislature. He "withdrew" assent pending a reference to the Governor-General. Had he remained silent a general provincial election would have been the next item on the political program.

The wolf is never so dangerous as when it appears in sheep's clothing. Unfortunately, this has to be remembered when Hitler and Mussolini, fresh from their activities in Ethiopia and Spain, speak reassuringly to a world longing for peace and security. The silence of the provinces will be the silence of the world, and the might of their armies which keep Europe in a state of alarm.—Toronto Star.

LOOKING TO '38

There are good grounds for optimism regarding 1938. As a matter of fact, the total rainfall this Summer throughout practically the whole drought district has been greater than it was in 1936. The trouble was that it did not come in time.

This fact, taken together with the rising level of the Lake of the Woods, the fact that Manitoba this year had enough rain to gather a better crop, and the fact that the ice which broke this year south of the international border, are the best possible indications that a period of normal rainfall is beginning.—Winnipeg Tribune.

ONCE A RED CITY, BERLIN ROARS FOR TWO LEADERS OF FASCISM
By LUDWIG LORKE

This afternoon Benito Mussolini will be the honored guest of Adolf Hitler and the German people in the Reichstag. The "population of Berlin" cables one American correspondent, "is awaiting the arrival of the Italian Premier with undisguised joy, and enthusiasm will be overflowing in this great city during these festive days."

Berlin used to be called the "Red City" because the Socialist and Communist vote was far greater than the combined vote of all bourgeois parties taken together. Is it possible that the advent of National Socialism has won over the masses to Hitler? The German embassies not only their own Adolf Hitler but that doubly hated Socialist renegade, the "Father of Fascism."

Hitler and his associates appear to have had some doubts regarding the "joy and overflowing enthusiasm" of their countrymen. Otherwise why would they have gone to such extremes to protect the lives of the two dictators? Mr. Wallace Deuel cabled the Chicago Daily News from Tokyo.

Passing Show

By J. S. COPPER

Ex-Premier Reid stumbling over the word "calumni" and ending up with something reminiscent of an apothecary's shop isn't the only legislator who needs a little drilling in pronunciation words. Premier Aberhart in his last Session, rather than tell us something or another was "imminable," quite obviously he meant "immeasurable."

"Immeasurable" is a tongue-twister like "presidium," which one can better pronounce before than after. Our painful experience was listening some years ago to the less informed members of the House of Commons—Hon. H. H. Stevens, then Minister of Customs—deliver a speech crammed with statistics, while he insisted on pronouncing statistics. Something must have given him a genetic correction for he has been using the common or dictionary pronunciation in recent years.

Over a million dollars have been spent in the search for the missing Major Sviridov, Levanevsky, Galkovsky, Kasanov, Bobrovich and Levchenko, and the search still continues. Despite the harshness of the Arctic climate and the short days, the searchers are more hopeful than that which was made in the southern hemisphere a few months ago for Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan.

The frozen Arctic is not filled with so many perils as the stormy south Pacific. Though weeks ago the searchers were still looking for the lost Sigismund Levanevsky and his companion, there is valid hope that they may have established themselves near their wrecked ship and may be found if the searchers can reach them before the winter gales and cold sweep them through.

Levanevsky with his chief pilot Levchenko won world-wide fame a year ago by flying an American Vulcan plane from Los Angeles to Moscow. He had been missing since October 1937 when he left on a flight from Tokyo to Moscow. He had been missing since October 1937 when he left on a flight from Tokyo to Moscow. Old Country Letter

London, Oct. 1: Sir:—I am writing to you in response to your report of what took place in our church and hall last Sunday on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the death of His Grace, Bishop Ladysmith, in memory of the services of the Ukrainian community.

May I express to you my personal thanks and assure you that your kind words and the expressions of our people, will be greatly appreciated.

On Friday evening, Oct. 1, we had a meeting of the Ukrainian community in our church hall. The meeting was opened by the president of the church, Rev. J. E. Norcross.

Commenting on the present jeep of Great Britain, which, by the way, is not the only one in the world, he said: "The jeep is a great day, was over and its star has gone. And now a leading weekly journal in Great Britain says what has happened to the jeep is a great day."

Commenting on the count of 100,000 dead in the Great War, he said: "The count of 100,000 dead in the Great War is a great day, but the count of 100,000 dead in the Great War is a great day."

Commenting on Charles II, he said: "Charles II was a great day, but the count of 100,000 dead in the Great War is a great day."

Commenting on the Great War, he said: "The Great War was a great day, but the count of 100,000 dead in the Great War is a great day."

Double Wedding

By PHILIP WYLIE

THE STORY THIS FAR: Life in the Agnew home on Long Hill Street has been under the best of circumstances. But her husband, Charlie Jones, a sidewalk artist, was a tramp. That he affects her personally is another story. His wife had a little money of her own. Squandered! And once in a while Charlie comes home with a summa from the sale of one of his pictures. He always knew it as "the price I got." Charlie comes in and informs Wally and Margit that he is taking a trip to the Adirondacks.

CHAPTER XIII

MARGIT sat in her office. She was trying to pull herself together. Keough stood in front of her, looking very artful. He was totally unrecognizable due to the fact that he wore tinted glasses, grey mustache and a full grey beard.

Margit eyed him. "You mustn't let me out of your sight for a minute."

"No, Miss Agnew."

"Don't you ever let me go again. I have to take any steps, however violent, if the situation calls for them."

Keough bowed with dignity. "I'm an expert at fugitives."

"All right, Keough. Go ahead."

The man went out in the wake of his heart.

Margit sniffed. She wiped her nose with a small green chiffon handkerchief.

Felice entered the office. "Mrs. Bly, Mr. Jones is here."

Margit shook. "Tell her to go away. Tell her to jump out a window."

"Yes, Madam."

"Darn it, I have to take any steps, however violent, if the situation calls for them."

Keough bowed with dignity. "I'm an expert at fugitives."

"All right, Keough. Go ahead."

The man went out in the wake of his heart.

Margit sniffed. She wiped her nose with a small green chiffon handkerchief.

Felice entered the office. "Mrs. Bly, Mr. Jones is here."

Margit shook. "Tell her to go away. Tell her to jump out a window."

"Yes, Madam."

"Darn it, I have to take any steps, however violent, if the situation calls for them."

Keough bowed with dignity. "I'm an expert at fugitives."

"All right, Keough. Go ahead."

The man went out in the wake of his heart.

Margit sniffed. She wiped her nose with a small green chiffon handkerchief.

"Good looking," Margit replied miserably.

Mrs. Bly sat down. "I've had jobs in my life," she said belligerently. "Little ones, middle-sized ones, big ones. This is the biggest one of all! I didn't know that you had mastered the need, ambition and desire to do what can happen on this planet that can bring tears in your eyes!"

"I'll never run away with a man," Margit agreed.

Mrs. Bly dropped her mouth at "a man." "I've had jobs in my life," she said belligerently. "No, it wouldn't be Walde."

"She stared at the beautiful boy who seemed to be the most popular in the room."

"I'm a man," a crooner. "The trumpet player in an orchestra?"

"He's a man," a dancer. "I have two daughters, they're running off with trumpet players these days."

"He's an artist," Margit said gloomily.

"Good looking," Margit replied miserably.

Mrs. Bly looked at her daughter with a smile. "I've had jobs in my life," she said belligerently. "Little ones, middle-sized ones, big ones. This is the biggest one of all! I didn't know that you had mastered the need, ambition and desire to do what can happen on this planet that can bring tears in your eyes!"

"I'll never run away with a man," Margit agreed.

"Curious," said Mrs. Bly.

"What's curious about it?"

"It's curious because—my experience—my personal experience and also my general observation—that when a man is a tramp he is a tramp and he is a tramp—or—maintains that he is a tramp who despises a man and in addition to that that he is a tramp of hysterics and a tramp of violence."

"He's cheap," Margit said bitterly. "He's cheap, he's cheap. He makes his living drawing people's pictures on the street. He's—He's a tramp. He's a tramp. He's a tramp."

"He's a tramp. He's a tramp."

What To Do

DOROTHY DIX Says:

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a young unmarried man. My work is prospecting for oil and developing mines. I don't give myself much opportunity to meet girls. Recently I read in a magazine, "Acquainted Correspondence Club" and I wrote to it for information. They are very interesting. Do you think members exchange addresses, etc., or do marriages of that kind turn out successfully? The things I look for in a girl are her looks, her manners, her intelligence, etc. I would like to have a girl to have the same traits that I have, such as a love of music and reading and dancing and outdoor sports. Do you think I am being too particular? I am not, but my chief fault is that I am a bit of a snob. In that way I often lose where I would win. But I think if I had the right kind of a wife I would settle down and be better.

A MINER

Is it considered bad taste to type write a social letter? Considering how much the telephone and telegraph are used today for social communication, is it not better that the typewriter couldn't be used as a means of social intercourse?

MRS. M. G. R.—
ANSWER.—Today the typewriter is a modern convenience which is taken in place in the social as well as the business world. But even though the typewriter is becoming more and more a part of our social life, a hostess would never dream of sending out a dinner or luncheon invitation on the typewriter, nor would she answer a formal invitation on the typewriter.

Marriage is the most personal thing on earth and picking out a husband or wife is a choice that nobody can do for you. Whether a man and a woman are right for each other, not upon what they are. A girl might be a model of all the virtues and just the one your Mother would select for you, whereas some little fibber might be just your heart's desire.

Anyway, there are risks enough in marrying even when you have known a girl from her cradle up, without taking any chances on a lady who was driven to advertising for a husband.

Of course, the women who are husband-hunting exaggerate their sartorial needs and you can't blame them for that. But if you are wise, you will discount their age and their beauty and their money by at least fifty per cent.

Not every "nearly widow" who desires to marry for companionship is a midget, nor is every girl who represents herself as "sweet and innocent" a blushing maiden. Often she is a widow with half a dozen broats. So beware.

The qualities you demand in the girl you marry are sensible and well considered and you should have no trouble in meeting one who has the right idea when it comes out of her mouth. Don't marry any girl under the delusion that she will change your nature and cure your wandering foot. She may be a good house-worker and after a man is married his nature, a typewriter letter should always be signed personally and in ink—never on the typewriter.

The Best of Beef is in

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

Prof. Roback, Harvard psychologist once said: "He who laughs last, laughs best." And often he has seen the humor in the laughing hymns or the braying "as." Neither can one's sense of humor be judged by the number of laughs it produces. Some people with keen sense of humor cannot even remember starting out to do it.

Most "joking" and "kidding" is not a sign of a sense of humor, but instead, a sign of a lack of it. Humor is something subtle and one man may enjoy a humor situation and another not even think of it.

Laughter is one of the poorest indications of a sense of humor.

Beware Frosty Wind
That Roughens Skin

By ALICIA HART

No question about it, football games, weekends in the country, rides along beautiful bridges, and other outdoor activities, always bring color to a girl's cheeks and a sparkle to her eyes. Even when she uses night cream faithfully and applies a protective moisturizer, she need not be afraid of going out to brave crisp breezes, she's likely to have pretty leather-like skin. But when the weather gets really cold, the skin becomes dry and sensitive, and it's not unusual for a girl to feel uncomfortable in social seasons is well underway.

Before you start for the grandstand, check the home items to victory. It's a good idea to cleanse face and throat with cream, put on several thin coats, cream, cream until smooth. Absorb, then apply a protective moisturizer. This is the secret to soft skin. If you have sensitive skin, use a special lotion or cream before making up. If you have oily skin, use a toner to tighten pores, then apply a toner that makes the complexion and makes it practically imperious to the ill effects of the weather.

Several of the newest so-called nourishing creams are to be left off the market. The reason is that one should simply smooth night cream on quickly, and go to bed. If you have time to take the preparation, always pat it in, massaging gently with upward and downward strokes. Use a thin film, but a thin film is better than nothing. If your skin is quite dry, hands and feet, leave on overnight. Otherwise remove every morning.

Now, Saturday, hold the reins firmly, transplant the bulbs of perennials or are otherwise engaged in outdoor work. You'll find it easier to be massaged with hand lotion and dried, and it's a great addition to your wardrobe.

Highlights and Low Downs

By ERNEST COWPER

Howdy folks!

We've frequently observed that time is fleeting and that the festive season will be upon us. But never has it been borne upon us so forcibly as in the announcement yesterday of the movie actress who will remain here for her former husband.

Gosh, we had no idea it was round to his turn again.

And this picketing case is starting to get us down.

Now a big Turkish bath establishment in the city is daily picked by a delegation who carry "unfair" picket signs.

Now if they wanted to be effective all they have to do is to placard it as a sorority. *

I am a poor soul, writes you from Devon, Dix. I can't find, he says, any girl who comes up to the high ideal I have set.

Well, there probably never was since the turn of the century a fellow of 20 who thought there was a woman around that was quite good enough to go on with, one of these days you'll stop to consider. *

DAILY DOUBT: I have noted with much satisfaction that our careful audience have been giving public duties, keeping steadily in mind the protection of the public and our government. —Protagonist speech by His Honor.

Mercury Remains
In Warm Brackets:
44 Is Low Reading

Confounding any good citizen who has allowed his thermometer to drop below zero, the mercury has switched to low "woollies" for the annual snow siege, the weather bureau said. The Edmonton gals again registered Wednesday, and boosted the maximum reading to 44 degrees. To add to the cold, the mercury had gone up to 32 above, and was on the way back to 30. The weather is "fair and moderately warm" forecast.

At Athabasca steps out of the 320 a.m. report from the near north to announce receipt of a heavy shower. Weather bureau said the temperature hours at that time went to Fort Vermilion, with 20 above. The mercury in the scale was occupied by Slave Lake, with an even 50 above.

M. H. O. SAYS POLIO WANING; ONLY ONE CASE

Dr. R. B. Jenkins States
Paralysis Now
On Decline

Assurance that the poliomyelitis outbreak in Edmonton was on the wane followed the appearance of a man in the city was given Thursday by Dr. R. B. Jenkins, medical health officer. Four of the patients have already been discharged and the remaining patients who contract the disease in Edmonton, while still in the hospital, are suffering only a mild form of the malady.

An outside case—a 29-year-old man resident at Bitter Lake—was reported to Edmonton Tuesday for treatment. This was the last case reported and the patient is receiving medical attention for a mild sickness.

Edmonton's first iron lung, which has been installed to treat attacks on the respiratory organs—has been installed at the Isolation hospital but is not yet in use. None of the local patients has suffered from respiratory weakness to far, but the doctor from Toronto as a precautionary measure.

I am a poor soul, writes you from Devon, Dix. I can't find, he says, any girl who comes up to the high ideal I have set.

Well, there probably never was since the turn of the century a fellow of 20 who thought there was a woman around that was quite good enough to go on with, one of these days you'll stop to consider. *

ATTACKS ON POLIO: The Legion of Frontiersmen, Chamber of Commerce, the Edmonton Civic Association and other organizations have joined together to provide a measure of hope for our seriously ill citizens. One appeal for funds for the victims would have scared our consciousness so deeply that we could not consider it. We must, however, act now and help, compel actions to avert impending disaster.

Mr. W. D. Ferris, speaking on behalf of the women, was given a most attentive hearing and said that in his capacity as secretary-treasurer of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, but solely on his own behalf, actually as he was not a member of the chamber, he was not addressing the meeting in his capacity as secretary-treasurer of the chamber.

John Blue, making his first political speech in 31 years, was seated right in the front row of the hall and scattered throughout the hall were the members of the audience.

Mr. Blue, in a personal inspection trip, found that the city's public works department, F. P. Martin, general manager, stores, department for charge of building activities for stores, and G. W. W. Muddiman, office of Mr. Martin's son, inspected the jewel store Thursday.

Reduced working hours for employees of the Hudson's Bay Company were authorized for Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in accordance with authorization given the company by the provincial government.

There will be no change in the working hours of the employees of the company, said, despite the shorter hours.

There are shopping hours for the stores from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. on all shopping days except Wednesday, when they open at 9:30 a.m. and close at 1 p.m.

Here on a personal inspection trip, F. P. Martin, general manager, stores, department for charge of building activities for stores, and G. W. W. Muddiman, office of Mr. Martin's son, inspected the jewel store Thursday.

C.P.R. PUTS 30 NEW ENGINES IN COMMISSION.

Special to The Bulletin

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—Power, speed and an attractive semi-streamlining appearance are the outstanding feature of the new 3-6-4 type locomotives first of which recently have been put into service by the C. The front plate merge into the horizontal lines of roundhouse and bogie trucks, giving the impression of the capacity for sustained high speed inherent in the design.

OPENING SATISFACTORY.

Attendance at opening of the bronk riding contest at the 12th annual world championship rodeo in Madison Square Garden last night was very satisfactory.

Striking members of the staff were present, including the manager, Mrs. Kate Lloyd, Inspector Middlemiss and Mrs. Lillian, the manager of the Victoria Inn, who was the hostess.

They walked out when Catherine Martin was dismissed by Mrs. Lloyd last Saturday.

Reports from the Spanish government indicate that Malaga, on the island of Minorca, where 50,000 residents were threatened with starvation, the Venetian government had failed to give adequate food supplies.

FROM CALGARY.

Canada Kid of Calgary captured third place money in the cowboy competition in the 12th annual world championship rodeo.

During the contest, a wave of ostrich-like enthusiasm over the new regulation requiring a minimum of 100 yards of non-lethal legislation which fails to distinguish between "right and wrong," has led to the belief that such an embargo could be imposed "effectively without force."
